What is feedback?

'All teachers understand the importance of providing meaningful feedback. Done well, it supports pupil progress, building learning, addressing misunderstandings, and thereby closing the gap between where a pupil is and where the teacher wants them to be. This process is a crucial component of high-quality teaching and can be seen in classrooms across all phases and subjects'. Education Endowment Foundation (EEF) Teacher Feedback to Improve Student Learning Guidance Report' (2021)

Feedback is a central part of a teacher's role and can be integral to progress and attainment. Research suggests that providing feedback is one of the most effective and cost-effective ways of improving students' learning. The studies of feedback reviewed by the EEF, found on average the provision of high-quality feedback leads to significant progress over the course of a year.

As part of subject curriculum development work we will be following the recommendations outlined by the EEF Teacher Feedback to Improve Student Learning Guidance Report' (2021) using the key principles: :

- Lay the foundations for effective feedback;
- Deliver appropriately timed feedback that focuses on moving learning forward;
- Plan for how pupils will receive and use feedback;
- Carefully consider how to use purposeful, and time efficient, written feedback;
- Carefully consider how to use purposeful verbal feedback;
- Design a school feedback policy that prioritises and exemplifies the principles of effective feedback.

Feedback can take different forms: peer, self, group, teacher marking, or verbal. Great teaching uses a combination of these, choosing the best form as appropriate to the learning. The best feedback, whether it is written or verbal, will give students a clear sense of how they can improve, with students responding and making progress as a result. With the advancement of technology there are different methods we can use which provide effective and purposeful feedback to students in a more timely way.

The disruption in teaching and learning during the pandemic has resulted in significant changes to teaching and learning, it is essential that we embrace the positive opportunities from a technological perspective and continue to develop our pedagogical practices to develop feedback including the use of visualisers etc.

Aims of Feedback

1. To help students make progress;
2. To provide strategies for students to improve;
3. To give students dedicated time to reflect upon their learning and put in effort to make improvements;
4. To inform planning and structure the next phase of learning;
5. To facilitate effective and realistic target setting for student and/or the teacher;
6. To encourage a dialogue to develop between student and teacher;
7. To encourage students to have a sense of pride in their presentation of work;
8. To correct mistakes, with a focus on literacy/vocabulary skills.

Principles

Huntington School's feedback policy aims to promote consistent and high standards of feedback. This policy sets down the general principles which subjects must use to draw up their own specific policies to suit their curriculum needs. There must be a commonality of approach to ensure that in all subjects, across all attainment ranges, students are given the same opportunities to maximise their learning and achievement. The general principles are:

1. Feedback should be timely and respond to the needs of the individual student so that they can actively engage with the feedback;
2. A dialogue, both verbal and written, should be created between teacher and student. When marked work is returned to students it is essential to allow time (DIRT: Dedicated Improvement and Reflection Time) for students to read the comments and engage with the feedback;
3. Feedback is a part of the school's wider assessment processes which aims to provide an appropriate level of challenge to students in lessons, allowing them to make good progress.
4. Where appropriate students should be encouraged to assess their own work against the learning objectives and success criteria;
5. Peer, group and self-feedback is a valuable tool for learning that should occur regularly, but it needs to be well structured by the teacher;
6. There should be three pieces of detailed feedback per term as the agreed maximum. To ensure consistency, schemes of learning/progress maps will be annotated with which pieces of work that will include detailed feedback;
7. Eliminating unnecessary workload will be at the forefront of any decisions related to marking and feedback, particularly at this time.

Type and frequency of verbal feedback

1. This is the most frequent form of feedback;
2. Verbal feedback may well be directed to individuals or groups of students; these may or may not be formally planned;
3. School based pupil voice conducted in 2018 showed that verbal feedback was highly valued by all cohorts of students, particularly our more vulnerable students.

Type and frequency of written feedback

1. Written feedback can be provided directly onto hard copies of student work such as in exercise books, or onto electronic/ computer-based tasks;
2. The frequency of written feedback will vary between subjects and key stages; agreed minimums should be clear in the marking policies of each subject area (see appendices for further information);
3. Subjects with a high practical contribution may rely more heavily on verbal feedback but written feedback will still be evident;
4. Detailed feedback will clearly identify the strengths and strategies for improvement that students will then act upon (this may be in the form of 'Stars and wishes'; 'Goals and assists' etc.);
5. When providing feedback on key pieces of work literacy/vocabulary will be addressed.

Type and frequency of peer feedback

1. This is shown by research to be one of the most effective modes of feedback, and peer to peer interaction has been shown to be one of the things students have most missed in recent months. Effective peer feedback is rigorously structured and modelled by the teacher;
2. Unnecessary sharing should be avoided at this time so peer to peer verbal feedback would be encouraged over peer written feedback;
3. Dialogue needs to be purposeful, with teachers guiding and supporting the conversation to ensure it is challenging and builds on prior subject knowledge (EEF Metacognition and Self-Regulated Learning Guidance Report).

Type and frequency of self-feedback

1. Akin to peer feedback, students need an explicit and clear structure to identify their learning needs;
2. Teachers should share success and/or assessment criteria where appropriate.

Type and frequency of group feedback

1. Group feedback, if delivered well, can be used to help students to reflect on their learning. Using clear guidelines, led by the teacher, students can self-assess their work.
2. Group feedback, can significantly reduce teacher workload and if used well and appropriately be used as Dedicated Reflection and Improvement Time.

Literacy and numeracy feedback

1. If the literacy standards of our students are going to improve we must give appropriate and targeted feedback. For students to take pride in their work they must realise that spelling, grammar and punctuation are not just important in English lessons but are essential for successful communication everywhere. It should be monitored when providing detailed written feedback;
2. Work should be marked for literacy using the following symbols:
  1. Sp incorrect letters circled in the word = incorrect spelling
  2. // in the student's work, means start a new paragraph
  3. ^ missing words
  4. ? unclear meaning
  5. P faulty punctuation
  6. C capital letters;
3. We all have a duty to be vigilant about standards of our students' numeracy where appropriate. For example, concepts such as graphs, ratio, proportions etc. should be monitored accurately across the curriculum.

Monitoring and Evaluation

1. Subject Leaders must ensure their departmental feedback policy supports the school policy. This policy should clearly identify the type and frequency of feedback in subjects;
2. Subject Leaders undertake quality assurance to ensure feedback is allowing students to progress their learning. This may involve informal conversations, or more formal interviews, with students; work scrutiny, learning walks etc.
3. Subject Leaders will check departmental feedback as part of quality assurance process, this will be outlined on Subject Leader Responsibility plan.

| 1. Observations of group and individual work are conducted in each practical element of the lesson. Relevant verbal feedback is given accordingly. 2. Students undertake a variety of practical assessments in KS3 over the course of the year. Teachers make observations and judgments during the process and a Progress Zone will be highlighted for elements of Creating, Performing and Responding, then recorded in each student’s Drama book in terms of the level of progress (E, M, W, and U). 3. A feedback session follows each assessment; they will receive their highlighted matrix sheet. Teacher, self and peer assessments are used at this point to help students identify individual ‘Successes’ and ‘Challenges’ will be both written and verbal and given throughout. | OCR - GCSE 1. There are 2 non examined units. One is internally assessed and one is assessed by the exam board. Teachers are able to review work before it is handed in for final assessment. However, this will be in ‘general’ terms to enable learners to take the initiative themselves in making amendments. General advice will be given during rehearsals and performances; however suggestions on how the assessed piece is to be improved are not allowed to be given directly by the teacher. 2. The third unit is a written examination-externally assessed. 3. Formative assessment is offered throughout the course, which includes one-to-one verbal feedback that identifies strengths and areas for improvement. Small group work, pair work, and solo work is also assessed by monitoring student learning, and teaching. 4. During this time regular written following “Success” and “Challenge” verbal feedback for guidance will be given.</li> </ul> |

4. Written teacher feedback will be in purple pen, students will write in blue or black unless that are responding to corrections or feedback with which it should then be done in green pen.

5. Throughout the year students will receive at least one written feedback from the teacher in the shape of 'Success' and 'Challenge' on a practical element of the course.

* A minimum monthly Log book checks will be conducted by Drama staff with " Success" and "Challenge" feedback to help the students to progress.

- Students will be assessed on their key vocabulary/knowledge during and after every topic. They will be expected to act on advice if performing poorly on these assessments. Microsoft Forms will be used to assess understanding occasionally.
- Students will receive the equivalent of at least one full exam section per half-term per component.
- Students will receive an additional mock examination in the allocated weeks on the whole school calendar and time will be allocated to reflect and improve upon performance.
- All exam style work will be marked formatively. Students will be given time to reflect and improve on these pieces. Feedback will highlight both strengths and areas for improvement.
- Group feedback may be used to deliver suggestions for improvement and to share good practice. Peer feedback will also be used to help students learn and will be structured by the class teacher.
- We will use the visualizer to check written work within class time and provide opportunity for peer assessment of such work.
- Folders will be visually checked half-termly for maintenance of note-taking and organization. Students failing to organize their folders properly will be asked to provide evidence more frequently and support given.
- Students in Year 13 may be placed on a contract for a higher UCAS predicted grade. They will be expected to improve any written work to the standard of that higher grade.
- KW will monitor feedback and conduct quality assurance at regular intervals.

| 1. Verbal feedback is recognised as having the greatest impact on student progress and will be at the core of our everyday teaching in Science at all key stages. Students will usually receive immediate verbal feedback on their contributions, ideas and questions in class. Verbal feedback is often given whilst students are completing tasks, students will usually act on this feedback and improve their work immediately, therefore there is no need for it to be recorded. Students may also receive immediate verbal feedback on their performance on short formative tasks such as mini-quizzes. Verbal feedback can be given on an individual, small group or whole-class basis.   |   |  |  |                     |            |                |   |   |  |  |
| 2. Other in-lesson feedback. In science, students will receive feedback on short activities/tasks/quizzes/their Extended Learning (homework) frequently from lesson to lesson. Frequent use will be made of self- or peer- marking as an efficient method of students receiving immediate feedback and improving their work/knowledge/understanding.  |   |  |  |                     |            |                |   |   |  |  |
| 3. Student responses. In all key stages, students are expected to act on all feedback. DIRT (Dedicated Improvement and Reflection Time) may be given in lessons for students to improve/correct/re-attempt their work or to complete tasks set in response to their identified areas of need. It should be clear that students' work, knowledge or understanding has improved as a result of the feedback given.  |   |  |  |                     |            |                |   |   |  |  |
| 4. Teacher feedback on tests/exams. In all key stages, students will be provided with detailed feedback on formal tests, end of year exams and mock exams. This feedback could take many forms, including (but not limited to): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a) marking and annotations on test papers</li> <li>b) written feedback addressed to individuals, small groups or on a whole-class basis</li> <li>c) verbal feedback addressed to individuals, small groups or on a whole-class basis</li> <li>d) re-teaching of specific science content, in response to areas of need identified during the marking process</li> <li>e) use of markschemes or other written resources (e.g. model answers) which provide feedback on how to improve specific answers and/or describe common mistakes/misconceptions</li> <li>f) feedback grids to identify areas of strength and weakness and/or guide students to reflect on their performance</li> </ul> Test feedback in science will always (i) identify (or allow students themselves to identify) areas of strength and weakness, and (ii) provide guidance on how students' exam responses can be improved and/or what students need to do next to improve their exam responses/performance in the future. <table border="0" style="width: 100%; border-collapse: collapse;"> <tr> <td style="width: 25%;">Y7 &amp; Y8</td> <td style="width: 25%;">Y9 &amp; Y10</td> <td style="width: 25%;">Y11</td> <td style="width: 25%;">Y12/Y13</td> </tr> <tr> <td>3 formal tests per year(including end of year exam)</td> <td>3 formal tests per year in each ofBiology, Chemistry and Physics(including end of year exam)</td> <td>2-3 formal tests/mock exams per year ineach of Biology, Chemistry and Physics</td> <td>At least 3 formal tests/mock exams peryear in each Science A-level</td> </tr> </table> |   |  | Y7 &amp; Y8   | Y9 &amp; Y10 | Y11 | Y12/Y13 | 3 formal tests per year(including end of year exam) | 3 formal tests per year in each ofBiology, Chemistry and Physics(including end of year exam) | 2-3 formal tests/mock exams per year ineach of Biology, Chemistry and Physics | At least 3 formal tests/mock exams peryear in each Science A-level |

5. Teacher feedback on specific tasks. In all key stages, students will be provided with feedback from their teacher on their performance on specific tasks. This feedback could take many forms, again including (but not limited to) the list (a)-(f) above. This feedback will always provide guidance on how students' work, knowledge or understanding can be improved and/or what students need to do next to make more progress. This feedback may also identify strengths/weaknesses in students' work, if appropriate to the task.

Y7 & Y8

Teacher feedback will be given on a specific task at least once per half term.

Y9, Y10 and Y11

Teacher feedback will be given on a specific task at least once task per half term in each of Biology, Chemistry and Physics; this will usually include/consist of past exam questions on topics studied.

Y12/Y13

Teacher feedback will be given on a specific task at least twice per half term.

6. General quality-of-work feedback. The general quality and completeness of students' work will be checked by their teacher regularly within lessons with verbal feedback on effort and pride in presentation. The feedback may be given on an individual, small group or whole-class basis as appropriate.

Type and frequency of feedback by Key Stage: Social Sciences

Key Stage 5

1. Formal assessment feedback - Students to complete an end of topic test (two topics within a 1 hour lesson slot) – sat in timed conditions with unseen questions.
Feedback for these key assessments is given in the form of 'Areas of strength and areas for development'. This will either be written feedback or feedback video uploaded to teams.
2. DIRT task to be completed following feedback and submitted on Teams
3. Regular knowledge check quizzes to be set as part of extended learning on Teams. These will be in a range of formats including multiple choice questions, application style questions and short answer questions. Written feedback will be provided on Teams using the comment box by teachers.
4. Lessons should begin with some form of formative assessment (key concepts, quiz from previous learning, application tasks) with opportunities for verbal feedback or self-marking.
5. Detailed feedback is given following full paper mock exams, (a minimum of 2 in Year 12 and 3 in Year 13).
6. Students are given a copy of the specification for each topic. They are made aware of the assessment objectives and encouraged to engage with these throughout the course.
